THE HOUSE.

Immediately after the reading and approval of the journal Mr. Rowell (Ill.) called up the contested election case of Atkinson against Pendleton and the floor was accorded to the contestee-Pendleton.

He said that he felt it his duty to speak in his own behalf, although he knew that he was addressing a jury which was prejudiced against him. He believed that he had carried the first district of West Virginia by means as fair, as honorable, as upright as had ever been used in any election in the history of the country. He reviewed the evidence in detail, controvert-ing the statements made by the supporters of the majority report, and in conclusion reiter-ated his declaration that he has been fairly and honestly elected.

Mr. Cooper (Ohio) closed the debate with an argument in support of the claim of the contestant. The vote was then taken on the minority solution declaring Pendleton entitled to the

It was defeated-yeas 142, nays 159, a strict A SILENT OPPOSITION.

The vote then recurred on the majority resolution seating Atkinson. The democrats refrained from voting, their object being to have the contestant seated by less than a quorum, so that the question of the right of the Speaker to count a quorum may be taken before the courts.

The vote resulted: Yeas, 162; nays, 0; (the Speaker counting a quorum). THE NEW MEMBER ADMITTED. Mr. O'Ferrall (Va.) raised the point of no quorum, but the Speaker ignored him, and the newly elected member appeared at the bar of the House and took the oath of office amid applause on the republican side.

OAK VIEW SOLD. The California Syndicate Pays $140, 000 For It.

For several days past there have been rumors in regard to an important sale of property in what is known as the Tenleytown region. The rumors, however, were provokingly indefinite and yet the intimation that the negotiations said to be in progress were of unusual importance gave an additional interest to the gossip. Gradually, however, the details leaked out one after the other, and today it is the talk of the street that ex-President Cleveland's country place on the Tenleytown road has been sold. The principals in the affair refuse to talk, and yet they cannot deny the truth of the rumors which are now agitating real estate circles. It seems probable that Mr. Cleveland, in the sale of his place, will create almost as widespread a sensation as when he purchased it, nearly four years ago. It is estimated that in the sale just closed he will clear over $100,000. The price at which he sold is $140,000, while four years ago he paid for the place and the improvements which he made about $32,000. The new owners of Oak View are the California syndicate, which recently became prominent here by making an extensive line of investment along Connecticut avenue extended to the District line. As was stated in The Star at the time the purchases made by these gentlemen along the line of the Connecticut avenue extension comprised some forty separate tracts of land. The title of forty separate tracts of land. The title of these various pieces of property are now being searched and as rapidly as the lawyers complete their work the legal transfer of the property to the syndicate is made. The purchases already made involve an expenditure of over a million of dollars. But the syndicate are not yet through. The purchase of Oak View is the beginning of another series of purchases which, though smaller in extent than the Connecticut avenue holdings, are likely to require quite as much money to are likely to require quite as much money to carry out. Oak View, however, bears a relation to several other purchases made by the syndicate which makes it of importance in carrying out the plans for developing the

It is not likely that Oak View will be kept in its entirety as a place of residence. The house will probably be allowed to stand, but the grounds will be subdivided into building lots. It has been known for some months past that Mr. Cleveland would sell his property, but the however, were begun with his agent in this city, afty feet from the bottom. Mr. Albert A. Wilson, and the sale was finally effected by Mr. Wilson in connection with Mr. desire to speak today on the resolution as to the election of a President pro tem. he would not ask its consideration today.

Mr. Blair made a like statement as to the educational bill, on which Mr. Spooner was to speak today. He added that the dependent Tenleytown boom set in. Secretary Whitney had already paid $300 per acre for a farm some distance beyond, and a short time before the close of the last administration he disposed of his property, Grasslands, as it was known, at a profit of $75,000. Property along the Tenleytown road and Massachusetts avenue extended was bought up at $300 and $400 per acre. Since then, however, there has been an vance on these figures and the price paid for the Cleveland place is an indication of what is

Commodore George B. White, U.S.N., chief of the bureau of yards and docks, died this morning at his residence in Hillyer place at 11:30 o'clock of apoplexy, after an illness of but

He was in perfect heaith yesterday, with the exception of a slight cold, and at 1 o'clock, having finished up the current work in his office for the day, went to his home. This morning on awakening he felt quite as well as usual and took a second short nap, from which he awoke at 7 o'clock, his usual hour for rising. It was then that the stroke came, a clot forming on the brain, causing apoplectic paralysis and unconsciousness. He lay in this condition until 11:30, when his breath ceased and he passed away without having spoken or shown any other signs of life. Dr. Gardiner was called as soon as the stroke came, but could do nothing. Commodore White leaves a wife and three children.

The news of his death, following closely after the announcement of his stroke, was a severe shock to the employes of his bureau and his brother officers. Everybody seemed dazed at the suddenness of the calamity and expressions of the deepest regret were universal. Captain Henry L. Howison, president of the steel board, was a classmate of Commodore White's, and spoke of him in the highest terms to a STAR reporter. "He was one of the best men in the service," he said, "one of the most just, the fairest, the ablest. As a seaman he had no superior; as a man he had the most lovable qualities—kind-hearted, considerate and affable. He had always been possessed of good health, having a strong, sturdy constitution, and his habits were the most exemplary."

A SKETCH OF HIS CAREER. George Bartol White was born in Pennsylvania, appointed to the naval academy September 28, 1854, graduating in 1858, and for two years was attached to the steam sloop Saratoga of the home squadron. He was on this vessel in the action which resulted in the capture of the steamers Miramon and Marquis de la Habana at Vera Cruz in 1860. His next vessel was the steamer Union, also in the home squadron, 1861, and it was in this year that he was commissioned as a lieutenant. During the war he was actively engaged on various vessels. For two years he served on the steam gun boat Ottawa in the south Abattle blockading squadron, taking part in the battle blockading squadron, taking part in the battle Ottawa in the south Atlantic of Port Royal, the engagement at Port Royal Ferry, June 1, 1862, the engagement with the rebel flotilla in Wilmington river in February, 1862, the capture of Fernandina, and the action in St. Mary's river in March and the operations

He was next sent to the steamer State of Georgia, in the north Atlantic blockading squadron, and then to the steamer Mendola of the same fleet, participating in the capture of Fort Fisher. He received his commission as lieutenant commander March, 1865, and from '66 to '68 on duty on the steam sloop Dacotah, in the Pacific squadron; at the League Island yard, Pa., in 1869; on equipment duty in Philadel-phia, 1869-71; commanding the store ship Onward at Callao, Peru, 1871-2; commissioned as commander August 13, 1872; served as light-house inspector in 1877; commanded the Frolic, south Atlantic station, 1877; light-house inspector, Philadelphia, 1877-81; commanded Kearsarge, 1881-82; member board of harbor commissioners, Philadelphia, 1882-89; pro-moted to be captain November 3, 1884. On the 2d of April, 1889, he was commissioned commo-2d of April, 1889, he was commissioned commodore and chief of the bureau of yards and docks to succeed Admiral D. B. Harmony.

Nothing has been settled as to his funeral.

WHERE THE BLAME LIES. The Walnut Grove Dam Had a Leak and the Engineer Knew It.

Сисадо, Ill., Feb. 27.-Е. В. Priest of Prescott, A. T., says the undoubted reason for the breaking of the dam of the Walnut Grove storage company across the Hazzavampa river price placed upon it was thought to put it practically out of the market. Negotiations,

Mr. Albert A. Wilson, and the sale was finally effected by Mr. Wilson in connection with Mr. R. H. Goldsborough. The price paid is about $6,000 per acre for the twenty-nine acres said to be in the place and will rank this property ceed 100. There were scores of men working in the placer mines there of whom no one knew anything. They had no homes, and for all I know they had no names. These men could have been swept away and no one would more than he paid for it nearly four years ago have been the wiser. This is the time when by the change in values in property all about Oak View. A TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

Moses and Robert Moore, who have arrive from the upper Walnut Grove dam, give the following particulars of the late disaster: We came up to the Hassayampa prospecting and passed a number of parties on the way who must inevitably have been lost. Thursday we arrived at the dam. Friday morning the water in the dam was rising at the rate of 18 inches an hour, with all sluices opened. Superintendent Thomas Brown had fifteen men employed all day in blasting out the waste waterway to allow the escape of the water. Despite the immense volume which went through this passage the water continued to rise until 9 o'clock at night, when it began to pour over the top of the dam. In the afternoon Superintendent Brown, seeing the dam must inevitably give way, sent a messenger to the lower dam to notify people there of danger, but he stopped at a saloon on the road, and becoming intoxicated failed to deliver the message. Next morning another messenger was sent, but was overtaken and drowned by the flood just as he neared the lower camp. About midnight we were warned by Brown calling to his foremant "Get up, Phil; I think the dam has broken." Soon after there was a tremendous roar, which was indescribable, and we arose and looking out saw the water rushing cut of the dam. Inside of two hours it had disappeared entirely from where it was from 60 to 90 feet deep.

Francis M. Parker was one of the men rescued from a perilous position about daybreak. Parker and his partners had gone to bed. When he was awakened he heard one of his partners exclaim: "My God, what was that!" He (Parker) never saw them again. He was caught up by the water and was lifted to the roof of the cabin, where he clung to the rafters until the cabin, after floating around, was driven against the bluff, where he seized some bushes and drew himself up on the cliff. One man was seen to start for a place of safety, and seeing escape was impossible bravely turned his face to the flood and was swept away. Another man was seen going up a steep hill and had reached a point about 50 feet above the level of the river bank when the mighty volume of water struck and killed him. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Feb. 27 .- The Bankers mutual relief association, one of the many corporation frauds established here recently, went to pieces yesterday, the officers disappearing with all the assets of the concern, including even the office furniture. The association was started over a year ago. It advertised to pay members sick benefits $5 to $20 a week, burial expenses of $50 and to insure lives of women. All this was to be done for a fee of only $10 a year. A careful estimate showed that with receipts of $35,000, which the association claimed to have, the first year it incurred obligations of $164,500 and with every week of its statement of $100. and with every week of its existence the obligations were increased. WHAT GOVERNOR BOIES WANTS His Inaugral Pitches Into the Prohibitory Law.

DES MOINES, IOWA, Feb. 27 .- In his inaugural address, which the newly-elected democratic governor, Horace Boies, delivered this afternoon, he proceeded to take up one by one the public questions at present agitating the people of Iowa, discussing them at great length. Coming to the question of prohibition, the governor stated that the prohibitory laws had been despised, disregarded and ignored in most of the large cities of the state from the day of its birth down to the present time. The use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage had not been diminished. Millions and millions of the capital of citizens had been invested in the business and then it had been vested in the business and then it had been coldly wiped out without one effort to compensate those who were ruined thereby. When ever the law had been enforced owners had been impoverished. In his judgment the chief obstacle to the enforcement of the law lay in the fact that it was a cruel violation of one of the most valuable of human rights."
